

Tie hacks shown here with pike poles, moving ties down the Green River in the 1890s. Bill and Carrie Budd photo, Thelma Budd collection.

Area Tie Hack History Wednesday, April 18th 6 pm Green River Valley Museum

With the construction of the transcontinental railroad, a large number of workers cut area timber to produce the railroad ties in work known as 'tie hacking.' Enjoy a lecture on tie hack history at the Green River Valley Museum, 140 Front St. in Big Piney.
